Calibrating Conversation

To calibrate means to compare something to a standard or benchmark. In calibrating conversation, it is important to have a third point in communication. Third point is a nonverbal strategy that comes from the work of Michael Grinder. It establishes a triangle with the facilitator as one point, the coaches as a second point and the data or focusing information as the third point.

- In a calibrating conversation, the third point is the externally generated, mutually agreed-upon document.
- Focusing on the third point increases the coaches' psychological safety by separating the information from the coach and allowing the coaches to talk with and about the data without having the make eye contact.
- The goal is to turn data and information into a "thing." It is much easier to talk about "things" than to talk about "you."

Student and Teacher Wellness

Resilience "is a belief in the ability of every person to overcome adversity if important protective factors are present in that person's life." (Krovetz, 2008). Teaching resilience is more than a lesson plan, a strategy, or program. Fostering resilience is "what we teach, how we teach, and how we assess are all central ... (alongside) how we organize the school and how we group students" (Krovetz, 2008, p. xiii). I support and practice personal wellness, implement brain-based learning, and foster collective wellbeing to contribute to my own resilience, and the resilience of my students and colleagues.

1 – I am aware of this and am building my own understanding.

2 – I have begun implementing this in my practice.

3 – I am refining my understanding and application of this idea.

4 – I am pursuing this in an innovative way.

Building and Fostering Relationships

The foundation of any classroom, school and community is strong relationships. I will examine those methods that might be used to create a classroom environment to help students flourish. I create relationships with students and parents that can provide powerful insights into the unique and creative minds of my students.

- 1 I am aware of this and am building my own understanding.
- 2 I have begun implementing this in my practice.
- 3 I am refining my understanding and application of this idea.
- 4 I am pursuing this in an innovative way.

Indicators of Responsive Teaching Self-Reflection

Professionalism (Qualities, Attitudes, And Responsibilities)

Teachers need to exhibit professionalism when dealing with students, parents, staff, and other community members. Professionalism is demonstrated through a commitment to professional growth, professional attitudes and beliefs, and professional responsibilities.

Commitment to Professional Growth		Yes	No
G.1	I contribute to the development of the profession through leadership and mentorship opportunities.
G.2	I assess my own teaching abilities and look for ways to improve.
G.3	I continually seek professional development to remain current with research and best practices (such as attend workshops, read professional literature, take on-line courses and webinars).

Profes	Professional Attitudes and Beliefs		No
P.1	I am committed to helping all students in their classroom succeed.
P.2	I am flexible and adjust to changes.
P.3	I respond constructively to feedback and challenges.
P.4	I demonstrate enthusiasm for my chosen profession both in school and out.
P.5	I dress professionally in accordance with the GSSD Administrative Procedure.

Profes	Professional Responsibilities		No
R.1	I am an accountable citizen within the school and community.
R.2	I support the foundational statements and philosophies of the school and school division.
R.3	I adhere to the policies and procedures provided by the school division.
R.4	I work as part of a team for the betterment of all students and staff.
R.5	I handle confidential material in a discreet manner.
R.6	I meet assigned tasks and deadlines (eg. report cards, cumulative folders, and attendance reports).
R.7	I adhere to the STF Code of Ethics.
